Golf for a good cause

Sign up now for the June 17 charity tourney

Dust off your clubs and call your golfing buddies. Registration is open for the Marson and Marson Cascade Golf Classic June 17 at Kahler Mountain Club near Lake Wenatchee.

Now in its 21st year, the tournament is Cascade Medical Foundation's largest annual fundraising event thanks to more than 70 sponsors, 40-plus volunteers and the 120 golfers who take time on the Monday after Father's Day to hit the greens for a good cause.

This fun-filled day will help purchase a new hematology (blood) analyzer for Cascade Medical. This vital piece of equipment is one of the most-used technologies in the lab, with upwards of 20-30 hospital and clinic patients benefitting from it every day.

New attractions at this year's tourney include a driving range target contest and entertainment by local musician Jacob Simms who will perform for players awaiting dinner and the awards ceremony.

Returning golfers will find course updates, as well, including a larger practice green and friendlier approaches to the greens on holes 2, 6 and 8.

Special thanks to Marson and Marson Lumber (TAL Holdings) as title sponsor for the eighth year, host Kahler Mountain Club and to returning major sponsors Louws Truss, Dan's Food Market, Icicle Ridge Winery and Squirrel Tree Resort.

Join us Monday, June 17 at Kahler Mountain Club!

Pre-tourney contests start at 9:15 a.m.
Shotgun start at 11:00 a.m

Registration: $130/player or $520/team

You did this! Cascade Medical's new Cardiac Rehab Center is open!

One more example of the community's support for local healthcare

The new Cardiac Rehab Center, providing individualized exercise therapy, education and social support for those recovering from a recent cardiac event, opened in January under the umbrella of Cascade Medical's physical therapy department.

The program was Cascade Medical Foundation's 2023 fundraising campaign, an $87,000 project for equipment and staff training. Cardiac rehab is key to avoiding a second cardiac event. The top reason people don't participate is "the drive." Launching a rehab option at Cascade Medical is a life-saving move.

Your generosity continues. The Foundation is nearing its $70,000 goal to purchase a new hematology (blood) analyzer for Cascade Medical's lab. We hope to announce our next project at the June 17 Cascade Golf Classic. Since 1992, the Foundation, with your help, has raised more than $1.9 million to help local healthcare.

Mark Judy's Legacy Continues

Three Cascade Medical employees receive scholarships

Cascade Medical Foundation's effort to honor the legacy of former administrator Mark Judy and help grow the skills of highly coveted health care professionals is paying dividends.

The first scholarships from the Mark Judy Memorial Caregiver Education Fund were awarded in March to three Cascade Medical employees pursuing training and certification in critical, high-demand areas — nursing, medical imaging and billing.

- Taylar Hendrickson, a full-time certified medical assistant, received $750 to help with prerequisite courses needed for the nursing program at Wenatchee Valley College.
- Brandi Weems, an X-ray and CT tech, received $750 for education and registry exam fees for CT (computed tomography), an in-demand service at Cascade Medical.
- Janeth Baltazar Lopez, a financial counselor, received $1,000 to complete a billing certification.

"The nature of the healthcare industry, with its scarce workforce and rapidly evolving demands, means continuing education is a critical focus for healthcare organizations," Cascade CEO Diane Blake said. "This effort, by the Foundation, generous donors and Mark's family, not only helps us invest in highly skilled and difficult-to-recruit employees, but it also sends a message to our staff of the value our community places on them and their professional growth."

Scholarships will be offered each spring. To make a donation or learn more, visit CascadeMedicalFoundation.org.
